- Block1: Firstmoss Launch Festival Use joy as stakes, not decoration. Celebration of moss-ripened crops and spring abundance. The festival makes the final ward defense personal before the fight begins. The festival is what the ward protects, made personal. Meeting these people now is what makes the later defense matter. The festival makes the final ward defense personal before the fight begins. Joy is doing a lot of work tonight. Trouble can walk in at any moment without the music ever stopping. <pages/entities/firstmoss-launch-festival.html>
- Block2: Green lanterns, clover cakes, damp banners, and work songs turn the lane into a celebration. Adults keep the route clear without making it look like guarding. A few smiles falter when the ward hum dips. Older locals track the Keystone crate even while passing food. Detail Sweet mossfruit, hot griddle cakes, trampled clover, and rain on lantern paper. tabletop RPG. Medieval/Renaissance fantasy technology only: hand tools, wagons, ropes, parchment notices, ward-stones, carved wood, brass, cloth, stone, moss, lanterns, and magic. The tone is colorful, playful, slightly absurd, and vivid, like a fantasy corporate frontier comedy rather than a grim drama. No sci-fi machinery, no 1800s/Victorian clothing, no modern suits, no guns, no logos, no readable text, no watermark, no border, no collage. /Users/kyle/Documents/My Games/Peril To Profit/story-atlas/src/location_visual_assets/firstmoss-launch-festival MAP-LOC-firstmoss-launch-festival village festival festival square map profile_scene Profile image ready /Users/kyle/Documents/My Games/Peril To...

- Imagine It Like: A small-town harvest fair on its one big night. Think county fair, May Day, and the slightly forced cheer of a community that had a hard year and needs this.
