

The Sable Stills

Hook

A settlement where strong drink, old jokes, and Sablewood craft turn danger into hospitality without making danger harmless.

Arrival Read

The Sable Stills are warm, smoky, and sharper than they seem, turning old wood, strong drink, and local jokes into hospitality with teeth.

Known For

The first sign is the smell: sugar smoke, wet bark, and something sharp enough to clean a wound. Then the trail frays into bootprints, bottle caps, and fern stems bent by people who know better than to leave a road. A copper coil glints between stacked...

What Is Here

Local residents or workers appropriate to the place drunk beetles, sugar moths, bold mice near mash barrels No default combatant; add only if the scene introduces one Local civic, trade, or route interests Food, tools, route signs, local goods, or...

Food And Texture

The cup you walked in with gets filled before you ask, clear liquor that smells like pears and lamp oil. A plate lands beside it without a word, smoked fish and a knob of sugar-moss candy and bread still warm from a...

You Could

- Look for the busiest local gathering point.
- Ask what has changed here recently.
