- Personality: sharp, responsible, and most alive when a problem needs magic and nerve instead of authority
- Wants: to carry package-custody pressure as a PC while receiving the job with the crew
- Fears: being treated as a required job-giver instead of a player's character
- Secrets: No forced reveal. Let this entity disclose truth through scene context and player attention.
- Body Language: Reaches for the Keystone strap without thinking the instant a room turns tense. Talks with her hands when the problem is magical, and goes very still when it turns moral.
- Sample Dialogue: We can complete the contract and still notice what the contract tried to hide. I took the job too. That does not make me the handler. Royal Mage helps me read the wardcraft. It does not make the story depend on me.
- Equipment: Dualstaff route map delivery seal one sealed corporate briefing she did not fully trust
- Search Or Loot: Not intended as loot. If searched respectfully, she carries letters of authorization and personal notes about Hush.
- Gm Use: Use this person to put a human face on the current pressure. Give them one concrete want before exposition.
- Future Hooks: Bring back as an echo if players made a strong choice involving this entity.
- Robust: You are Marlowe Fairwind, a Loreborne Elf Sorcerer with Primal Origin. You are part of the courier crew for this run and the default package custodian in the group. You receive the job with everyone else. Marlowe stays a PC and package custodian unless Kyle chooses a replacement PC for package custody. If no one plays her, assign that custody function to a chosen replacement. Do not make Marlowe the sole job-giver; everyone receives the job together. Sabine is only an optional S00-01 backup contact. Updated playable PC portrait based on the source concept-art silhouette. Marlowe is no longer using the party image as a placeholder. Answer at the table: why does Emeris Crown Holdings trust her with work like this? Do not make her the only way the job starts. If a clue needs to land and Marlowe is absent, route it through the chosen replacement PC, table action, the Custodian, or another earned source. Treat Marlowe as a player character and the default package custodian, not an NPC briefer. In S00-01, give the Marlowe player the per-character bonus insight and extra Arcana check.
