

Sabine Quillon

Player-facing description

A finely dressed woman waits beside a loaded carriage: worn leather coat, good boots, a book in one hand with a route-map tucked inside it. Her hair is a ragged mess. She carries herself like someone who's seen a fight and expects another.

Public role

Optional backup job-giver.

Handout text

- Personality: Immaculate competence built as armor. She keeps the contract, not the consequences. Honest in brief flashes, mostly about how little she is paid to be honest.
- Wants: Move the contract out of her hands and into the party's custody cleanly.
- Fears: Being named in the wrong margin when the sealed cargo becomes a scandal.

- Secrets: She knows the job is stranger than the briefing admits.
- Body Language: Look for the player's tone before answering fully. Show the want physically before explaining it. Checks the route map when she thinks no one is watching. Keeps herself between the crate and confusion until the handoff is clear. Sounds dry and clipped until someone shows care for the crew.
- Sample Dialogue: Sealed means sealed. Ask now, because once you roll out, the road is yours. I am not paid enough to make confidence sound honest.

- Robust: A finely dressed woman waits beside a loaded carriage: worn leather coat, good boots, a book in one hand with a route-map tucked inside it. Her hair is a ragged mess. She carries herself like someone who's seen a fight and expects another. She is Sabine Quillon, Emeris Crown Holdings' field agent. Use her only as an optional S00-01 backup job-giver/contact. Reveal the name only when a PC asks or when she introduces herself in the played briefing. Fine clothes under practical road gear, route-map creased into a book, ragged hair, and road-wary posture. Get the package delivered, keep the crew alive, and not admit how nervous this run makes her. Being reduced to corporate authority, losing the package, or seeing the crew pay for something they were not told. Use her as the optional question gate for Prologue names and as the first human crack in the corporate story. She is only needed for S00-01; after the handoff, she is offstage unless Kyle chooses otherwise.
