

S01-04 - The First Action Roll - Reading the Creature

Player text

The creature is wary of every movement you make. Let's find out how she reacts. This is your first roll: grab your two d12s, add your Presence, and tell me the total, plus which die came up higher. If you have an Experience that fits, you can spend a Hope before you roll to add it.

Public objective

Read the creature correctly and get everyone, including the young, out of this without bloodshed.

- Caption: The first meaningful roll teaches that this adventure is about judgment, not just success.
- Mood: The Logistics Incident
- Gmgoal: Teach Duality Dice through the creature reaction roll and resolve the standoff caused by S01-03.
- Publicobjective: Read the creature correctly and get everyone, including the young, out of this without bloodshed.
- Readaloud: The creature is wary of every movement you make. Let's find out how she reacts. This is your first roll: grab your two d12s, add your Presence, and tell me the total, plus which die came up higher. If you have an Experience that fits, you can spend a Hope before you roll to add it.
- Gmnotes: Use the exact outcome language here so the first roll feels transparent. After resolving the roll, return to the blocked road: the creature leaves, the road clears, or the encounter moves to the combat board.
- Gmscript: Say: "This is our first action roll. You are trying to read and influence a living creature, so this is Presence, Difficulty 10. Roll two d12s, add Presence, then tell me your total and whether Hope or Fear is higher. Before you roll, does an Experience fit strongly enough that you want to spend a Hope on it?"
- Gmreadaloud: This is your first roll: two d12s plus Presence against Difficulty 10. Tell me the total and which die is higher: Hope or Fear. If you have a fitting Experience, you can spend a Hope before the roll to add it.

- Gmchecklist: Name Presence and Difficulty 10 before dice hit the table. Offer spend-Hope-for-Experience before the roll. Resolve both axes: success/failure and Hope/Fear. Route success or mercy toward a cleared road; route fear-heavy escalation to MAP-COMBAT-S01-03.
- Gmprivate: This is not a floating tutorial. It is the resolution of S01-03. Keep mercy as the clean path. Combat is a consequence of fear, threat posture, or failure, not the goal.
- Playertakeaway: You now know the action-roll engine: total against difficulty, then Hope or Fear colors the result.
- Storytakeaway: How you read and treat a frightened animal sets the moral tone for the rest of the route.
- Mechanictakeaway: Roll Presence against Difficulty 10; 10+ succeeds, Hope/Fear changes who gains momentum, and doubles are a critical success.

Hope: the PC gets what they wanted and gains Hope. Keep the position clean or the full result, but gains Hope and receives a useful thread, clue, or safer next option. Failure with Fear: the PC fails and the GM gains Fear. Make a hard move that follows from the fiction. The table learns that the roll changes the fiction, not

- Takeawayhelp: Player takeaway You now know the action-roll engine: total against difficulty, then Hope or Fear colors the result. "That is the engine: total beats the number or it does not; the higher die tells us who the moment favors." "For this roll, use Presence. If you have a fitting Experience, spend a Hope before rolling to add it. Then tell me total, Hope or Fear, and whether the dice match." After this, future rolls can be faster: ask intent, name trait, name difficulty, roll, read Hope/Fear, narrate consequence. action-roll duality-dice presence hope fear Story takeaway How you read and treat a frightened animal sets the moral tone for the rest of the route. "This first roll is not about winning. It is about what kind of crew you are when fear gives you an easy violent answer." "If you calm her, she clears the way with the pups. If the scene turns hostile, she defends space and tries to flee; the road still clears, but the memory of how it happened follows you." Use this result to set future texture: mercy can become warning, trust, or a feather token; cruelty can become silence, guilt, or later distrust. roleplay table-spotlight Mechanic takeaway Roll Presence against Difficulty 10...
