

SZ-04 - Character Selection / Sheet Orientation

Player text

In front of you: a character sheet, quick rules card, connection sheet, and safety card.
Your sheet tells you who your character is, what they are good at, what they can do, and how much pressure or harm they can take.

Public objective

In front of you: a character sheet, quick rules card, connection sheet, and safety card.
Your sheet tells you who your character is, what they are good at, what they can do, and how much pressure or harm they can take.

Player bullets

- Look for: name and vibe, traits, Experiences, weapons/actions, Hope, Stress, Hit Points, Armor, and class/domain abilities.
- Pick or confirm a character. If you chose ahead of time, make sure the sheet in front of you matches that choice.
- Marlowe Fairwind - playable Loreborne Elf Sorcerer pregen and default package custodian; she receives the job with the crew.
- Barnacle - sneaky rogue with questionable logistics instincts.
- Garrick Reed - kind ex-security warrior.
- Khari Nix - giant guardian loyal to people before contracts.
- Varian Soto - sharp-eyed ranger tracking unlicensed apex fauna.

- Gmnotes: Script: Tell players what is physically in front of them and point to each major sheet area. Marlowe stays a PC and default package custodian unless replaced; Sabine can be used in the Prologue only as an optional backup NPC job-giver. Either way, everyone receives the job together. Quick mode: use pregens as written. Guided mode: rename, pronouns, look, motive, and equivalent Experience label only. Do not change stats, damage, cards, class features, or balance during a short public slot. Checklist: Characters selected; Marlowe PC or chosen package custodian status assigned; Handouts confirmed GM-only: What PCs do not know: ward function, soul-economy implications, Bramble Union motives, final ritual threat, Relay Spire hook.

- Gmreadaloud: In front of you is your character sheet. It tells us who your character is, what they are good at, what resources they have, and what special options they can use. The most important parts for the first scene are your name, pronouns, ancestry/community/class, traits, Experiences, Hope, Stress, HP, Armor, and your key abilities. If any sheet label is confusing, ask me. We will learn the sheet by using it.

selection help: Garrick and Khari are most beginner-friendly; Varian is also beginner-friendly for scout play; Marlowe and Barnacle are medium complexity. "Find your character name, pronouns, ancestry, community, class, traits, Experiences, Hope, Stress, HP, Armor, and your key abilities. That is enough to begin." If someone asks what matters most right now: "Name, vibe, traits, Experiences, and one ability that looks fun. The rest can wait until it comes up." - Percharacterlayer: marlowe-fairwind Marlowe Fairwind she/her Loreborne Elf Sorcerer, Primal Origin Arcana, ward-sense, and the custodian responsibility around the package. Character selection The clever insider holding a secret heavier than she lets on. Flexible ranged magic; the only one who truly grasps the cargo as its custodian. Medium, because spellcasting asks for a few choices. Offer Marlowe to a player who wants magic, responsibility, and a secret-adjacent role without making her the job-giver. Marlowe is for someone who wants to play a clever elf sorcerer with real responsibility around the package and flexible magic at range. barnacle Barnacle he/him Underborne Ribbet Rogue, Nightwalker Shadows, deals, underworld instinct, and noticing when a job smells wrong. Character selection The slippery shadow who's never not scheming, and who will not go near water. Stealth, shadow movement, deals, and getting into or out of trouble. Medium. Offer Barnacle to a player who likes clever angles, sneaking, bargaining, and a little comic danger around his water fear. Barnacle is for someone who wants stealth, deals, shadow tricks, and a character who always has an angle. garrick-reed Garrick Reed he/him...
