

The Relay Keeper

Hook

a distant relay keeper whose silence turns the next hook into a person in danger

Public Read

An older woman in dark teal maintenance robes stands in a stone relay chamber, silver-black braids threaded with tiny copper bells, blue crystal earrings, a cracked glowing lens in one hand and a charred map ribbon in the other.

Comes Across As

Keeps a dying signal alive out of sheer refusal. Wears braids threaded with bells tuned to far spires; two of them no longer ring, and she will not remove them, because silence is still evidence.
