

The Titan's Steps

Hook

A colossal pillar route rising more than a thousand feet through Sablewood, where merchants pay for altitude in sweat, rope, and hazard rate.

Arrival Read

The Titan's Steps climb through height, rope, sweat, and hazard pay until travel itself feels like a negotiated risk.

Known For

Each stair is the size of a town square, so a single step takes half a morning to climb. Grass and flowers have turned the lower treads into hanging meadows. A crack in the stone becomes a road you walk down the middle of. From the lip, the whole territory...

What Is Here

Local residents or workers appropriate to the place ridge goats, stone swifts, crack crickets, little lizards basking on warm stone No default combatant; add only if the scene introduces one Local civic, trade, or route interests Food, tools, route signs...

Food And Texture

Climbers eat light and often, hard biscuit, dried meat, a sharp tea brewed at altitude to keep the hands steady. Hazard pay buys better rations near the top, and people guard a warm flask like a secret worth keeping.
