

The Wandering Briar

Hook

A mile-long living briar wall that blocks routes, shelters Wanderer families, and moves faster when its thorns taste blood.

Arrival Read

The Wandering Briar is a living wall with memory in its thorns, sheltering some people and punishing anyone who treats it like brush.

Known For

A living wall of thorn a mile long, and it moves. The way in looks like a plant trying to be a doorway. Old cart-panels and dragged doors make private rooms in the hollows. The ground shows long skid-marks where the whole thing relocated itself, and the path...

What Is Here

Local residents or workers appropriate to the place mice in wall hollows small birds using thorns as protection insects that clean sap wounds No default combatant; add only if the scene introduces one Local civic, trade, or route interests Food, tools, route...

Food And Texture

The Wanderer families share what the Briar provides, thorn-fruit that opens only after a fight, bitter greens, snared game. A welcomed guest eats from the same pot as everyone else. An unwelcome one finds the thorns...
