A mist-wrapped place where route certainty breaks down and the forest makes navigation feel like an audit of attention. The Miremist makes certainty expensive: fog, wet roots, and route sounds that arrive from the wrong distance. The Miremist feels like a place with opinions about navigation: luminous puddles, crooked posts, soft ground, cheerful warning charms, and paths that are only paths at the right time. The place breaks into usable table spaces: Post trail: Crooked markers cross wet ground. Soft pool: Still water hides depth and reflection tricks. Dry hummock: Small islands hold plants, nests, and temporary safety. Plants and materials: bog moss, pitcher flowers, reed mats, floating lantern algae. Animals and background life: Mist-Things move as half-seen animal shapes, Eeligator wakes disturb deep pools, Ward-Moths drift where old lines run under water. The air carries low mist, sucking mud, reflected lights, muffled sound. Mist rises as water...
