Summary: Old faerie-like custodian who maintains the ward protecting Hush.. Cinematic fantasy concept art, readable silhouette, no visible text, no UI, no watermark. Do not include the Strixwolf Mother, strixwolf pups, wolves, owlbeats, or animal companions.
- Personality: Ancient kindness running on fumes, glowing a little brighter whenever someone tells the truth nearby. Wants to keep one place honestly safe long enough for people to remember that safety can be care instead of a product, and is quietly breaking under the cost of it.
- Wants: Renew the ward without being treated as a device.
- Fears: The stone waking hungry, the Relay failing, and being remembered as infrastructure instead of a person.
- Secrets: The ward's cost is personal, and the deepest economy behind that cost is worse than she will say unless trust and understanding are earned.

- Body Language: Look for the player's tone before answering fully. Show the want physically before explaining it.
- Sample Dialogue: Please do not call me the ward interface. A contract can move a package. It cannot decide what a life is worth. If you are here to help, stand where help costs you something.
- Equipment: ward staff ink-stained gloves keys rune chalk bitter candies old map

- Gm Use: Use this person to put a human face on the current pressure. Give them one concrete want before exposition. Use this page to seed the manufactured-threat reframe without turning it into exposition.
- Future Hooks: Bring back as an echo if players made a strong choice involving this entity. Can become evidence in the future Relay Spire manufactured-threat investigation.
- Robust: Whitefire Custodian: Old faerie-like custodian who maintains the ward protecting Hush. She knows the Relay Spire is beginning to fail but waits to see whether the party treats her truth as a person or an asset. Give one concrete visual, one sound or texture, and one sign of who has used or neglected it. to renew the ward without being reduced to a tool that the next failure is already arriving
Her Sablewood role now includes local ward craft, the Open Vale ritual, and a small practical charm that makes the forest feel negotiated rather than conquered.
Knowledge / Instinct / Presence as fits the table 15 Learn the clean fact about Whitefire Custodian and one deeper connection. Learn the useful fact and gain a follow-up question. Learn the fact, but reveal who notices, who is endangered, or what timer advances. Miss the full answer, but gain a sensory clue or safe next step. Misread the pressure and invite a GM move tied to cost, custody, or danger. Spend Fear to reveal the system behind the object, move a threat closer, or make a choice more costly. Loreborne / Knowledge: names the institutional pattern.
Wildborne / community: notices local use, neglect, or ecological stress...
- Manufactured Threat: "The wood never needed managing. It needed leaving alone."
"Your capital's safety is older than your contracts. It is the very thing they teach you to fear." She reveals the Keystone because the ritual needs trusted guards, not because she wants to exposition-dump. She is wary around old Soulspire inspection seals on the counterweight boulder.
- Mechanics: Social / Information Mechanics Players can interact, comfort, persuade, or earn trust Whitefire Custodian when it is present in the fiction. Use the roll only when the player's method, stakes, and consequence are concrete. Surface read: Old faerie-like custodian who maintains the ward protecting Hush.
