- Long Storyboard: Let the party decompress. This scene proves the adventure was about people, not just delivery. Run this scene as return, consequence, and next hook: Back at the Hanging Office, the party can see how the contract changed them. Keep the camera close to practical choices, visible consequences, and the difference between ordinary people and the infrastructure pressing on them.
- Read Aloud: An hour later, the Keystone hangs above the hearth, humming to itself like a sleeping storm.
- Gm Notes: If Hush Trust is high, include a meal, bath, or local gift from the village. Keep player-facing information actionable. Reveal systemic truth through objects, reactions, and consequences before naming it. Manufactured-threat lens: seed the contradiction, do not explain it. The surface goal stays simple and heroic. [KEEP/GUARANTEED] The ritual completes, Hush is safe, and the Custodian thanks them. The win is real. [ADD/GUARANTEED] A Grail/Kazrak incident report thanks them for "neutralizing forest hazards" and supporting continued Protection Coverage. [ADD/EARNED] If pushed, the Custodian admits the "hazards" were not always here, then looks away. (Presence Hard 20)
- Sensory Details: cleaner whitefire ink drying on amended forms rain tapping ropes instead of alarms
- Body Language: The Custodian uses names more if trusted Marlowe waits before filing the report
- Sample Dialogue: Whitefire Custodian You delivered more than the asset. Try not to let the paperwork steal that from you.
- Checks: Presence Close relationship loops with Marlowe, Hush, or the Custodian. Easy Choose epilogue tone. 10 Cleanly resolve: Close relationship loops with Marlowe, Hush, or the Custodian. Add a concrete boon, extra clue, or improved position. Success, plus the player names one helpful detail or asks one follow-up question. Success, but the GM exposes a cost, ticks a countdown, or reveals a new pressure tied to Back in the Hanging Office. The full goal slips, but the party still learns a useful truth or avoids the worst consequence. The GM makes a hard move that follows from the fiction and leaves the next choice visible. Spend Fear to complicate the report, sharpen the relay hook, or show how the system edits a victory. On mixed or sliding results, reveal information in layers: visible fact, actionable clue, then systemic truth.
- Choices Consequences: Tell the truth in the report Risks corporate attention; honors Hush. Public-output hook. Sanitize the report Safer job completion. System persists more quietly.

- Clues: Amended form A report is due. Documentation is a battlefield. The official record can either reveal or obscure what happened. - Player Questions: What detail in Back in the Hanging Office tells you the official story is incomplete? Who notices the human cost first, and how do they show it? What small object, smell, or sound makes this scene feel real?
- Relationship Prompts: Which PC quietly checks on someone else here? Who disagrees about the right thing to do without breaking trust?
- Ownership Prompt: Name one detail in Back in the Hanging Office that belongs to your character's point of view.
- Reveal Hooks: Loreborne or Knowledge-focused PCs can read the institutional layer. Wildborne/community-focused PCs can read local custom and ecological stress. Martial/security-focused PCs can read threat posture and custody logic. Magic-focused PCs can feel ward tone, soul-signal, or spell instability. Loreborne: spots older legal, heraldic, or ward-craft language under the branding. Underborne: notices service doors, hidden routes, and who built the thing nobody credits. Highborne: reads etiquette, class panic, and reputational risk. Ridgeborne: notices stonework, weight, pressure, and structural weakness. Wildborne: reads the land, animals, and local ecological stress. Elf/Ribbet/Human/Giant/Katari: invite one sensory or social detail from the player's heritage. Sorcerer/Rogue/Warrior/Guardian/Ranger: give each class one table-facing way to shine without changing the plot.
- Fear Spends: Spend Fear to complicate the report, sharpen the relay hook, or show how the system edits a victory. Make the report protect an institution unless the PCs spend effort to keep truth intact. Bring the Relay Spire hook closer through a tremor, missing keeper mark, or unpaid notice.
- Story Scope: Perceived antagonist: the forest. True antagonist: the corporate lie about the forest. The players never confront it directly. They are meant to feel it by the end. Every act offers at least one guaranteed and one earned hint that the danger is manufactured and the forest is not the enemy. The ritual completes, Hush is safe, and the Custodian thanks them.
