- Mood: spatial reference and location texture
- Gmgoal: Use Hush as the warm hub for Act 3: a lived-in village, ward boundary, social routes, and all optional detours looping back toward the keeper.
- Publicobjective: Hush gathers under the colossal trees: warm windows, lantern branches, low roofs, and paths leading toward a tree-tavern, market stalls, festival noise, and the farms beyond.
- Readaloud: Hush gathers under the colossal trees: warm windows, lantern branches, low roofs, and paths leading toward a tree-tavern, market stalls, festival noise, and the farms beyond.
- Gmnotes: No dead ends: co-op, market, festival, farms, and official sign all loop back here or forward to the keeper route.
- Gmscript: Say: "Use this as the hub. From here the party can head to the Co-op, ask locals, visit the market or festival, inspect the farms, or follow directions south when custodian_route is set."
- Gmreadaloud: Hush gathers under the colossal trees. Warm windows and lantern branches make it feel lived in. Every path here should either deepen trust or point back toward the keeper.
- Gmchecklist: Keep detours looped back to the hub. Use player-safe Hush in player text. Treat the official/corporate lens as GM-only or sharp-PC discovery.
- Gmprivate: The cozy hub is a registered managed place. Keep that hidden-truth lens off the player display until discovered.

- Playertakeaway: Hush gathers under the colossal trees: warm windows, lantern branches, low roofs, and paths leading toward a tree-tavern, market stalls, festival noise, and the farms beyond.
- Storytakeaway: Hush is the community the package exists to protect, not a checkpoint to clear.
- Mechanictakeaway: The hub turns social trust into navigation: hush_trust and custodian_route decide the quality of the path forward.

- Gmbeats: MAP-LOC-hush-orient Orient Orient the hub Say: "This is the hub: Co-op, market, festival, farms, and the route south." The map shows every Act 3 social path and the southward route. The village becomes a playable space. Map navigation supports trust and clue gathering. Players know where they can go. Player takeaway Players know where they can go. "This is the hub: Co-op, market, festival, farms, and the route south." "The playable fact is: The map shows every Act 3 social path and the southward route." Concrete actions for this beat: talk to a person present, inspect the named detail, help an ally, or choose whether to move toward the Custodian route. presence table-spotlight Story takeaway The village becomes a playable space. "This is the hub: Co-op, market, festival, farms, and the route south." "The story fact in play is: The village becomes a playable space." This beat changes Act 3 through this exact pressure: The village becomes a playable space. presence table-spotlight Mechanic takeaway Map navigation supports trust and clue gathering. - Takeawayhelp: Player takeaway Hush is a navigable social hub with several useful routes. "You can go to the tree-tavern, market, festival, farms, or ask around from here." "If the table stalls, point to one route: Co-op for people, market for rumors, farms for the path south, festival for goodwill." The hub should reduce GM scrolling: one visible map, then one active choice. presence instinct knowledge Story takeaway The map makes Hush feel like a home worth protecting. "This place is not just where the job ends. This is what the job is for." "The village has warmth, routines, food, children, workers, and a ward that lets those things continue." Keep the village sincere. Corporate critique enters through stamps and systems, not by making the locals a joke. presence instinct knowledge Mechanic takeaway The map converts trust into route access. "Raise trust, get clearer paths. Lose trust, and the route gets vague or risky." "Track hush_trust, custodian_route, ward_awareness, and hush_clues from this hub as the party moves." The concrete mechanical endpoint is custodian_route: safe, dangerous, or unknown before the Act 4 bridge. presence instinct knowledge
